MS v. NIM (Soloway)

It looks like Bobby lost this suit by default judgment for discovery violations. An order was entered by the Court on April 8 which could be CONSIDERED (the Judge's emphasis) for vacating if Soloway complies.

BTW, Soloway claimed in his papers that he no longer uses contractors but that the contractors at the time were to be blamed for all of the violations. Oh the webs we weave.

RE: MS v. NIM (Soloway) (in reply to poisonpen)

Reading over the papers, RS claims that he never kept any records, and has no information about, subcontractors. My tinfoil helmet tells me that the IRS is going to have a little chat with Bob about those 1099 forms that were never filed. OTOH, if Bob DID file the 1099s then he perjured himself in his affidavit.

BTW, the soon to come Bankruptcy filing will not discharge IRS debt of this type, for which there is no corporate shield. He is personally responsible.

So your argument is that my statement is incorrect because you think that it is incorrect. Your command of logic is nothing short of astonishing.

I am Robert Soloway, and yes your statement is 100% incorrect.

Neither I, nor my company will be for filing bankruptcy and Microsoft will not be collecting a single dime from me, nor has anyone ever collected a single dime from me from any lawsuit I have been in.

You know nothing about this case. The Microsoft lawsuit was the most enjoyable lawsuit I have been in, in a long time. I met up with all of them and had fun through the entire process :)

It doesn't matter if they receive a judgement for $8 million or $8 billion, Microsoft won't see a single dime, (or penny) as all my assets are protected under the Washington State Asset Protection Act.

The Microsoft suit was just some fun I had while living in Seattle.. nothing more.. ;)

You know nothing, and are completely 100% clueless. Stop acting like you have a clue as to what you are talking about.

You are a complete uneducated, ignorant moron, plain and simple.

I've been in business for over 10 years with the best accountants in the world, and lawyers in all 50 states that know how to run my business legally and protect me from all lawsuits that come my way.. not a concern.. I just pay them a few hours of my work and they take care of the entire cases for me...

I've been sued for hundreds of millions of dollars and have had my business running for over 10 years without ever paying a dime regardless to the outcome of any lawsuits.

I'm a Non-US citizen and will not be filing for bankruptcy, nor will my company, nor have I ever in the past, nor have I ever had any debt to the IRS with the taxes I gladly pay to them every year... EVER. Feel free to quote me on that one. Quit acting like you have a clue, because you don't. You know absolutely nothing. Like I said, it's nice to finally see someone on this board that truly is clueless.

The only thing the Microsoft lawsuit did to me, was help me with perjured discovery provided by them to be used for my foundation for the 38 class action lawsuits being formed in 38 states as we speak for their violations of state spam laws, the computer fraud and abuse act and the can-spam act. Another thing you have no idea about. There's only one winner in the Microsoft suit against me.. me... and in regards to the braver suit, if he doesn't drop the case on me shortly, I will bring it all the way to trial costing him a fortune and win, as I always do, not to mention he will have about $500,000 in legal bills defending himself from some of the best legal firms in 4 states due to his previous abuses in the telemarketing and junk fax arena regarding previous individuals that used to reside near his location..... I always win.. regardless of the judgement amount.. losing is not an option, and I never ever, ever, have to pay a single cent to anyone... :)

Now shoo... before I laugh any further at you and your hilarious statements acting like you have any factual idea of what has and is going on in my life or my business...

 I'm still new here...

RE: MS v. NIM (Soloway) (in reply to poisonpen)

I gather that English is not your first language so I'll make some allowances.

>> Neither I, nor my company will be for filing bankruptcy <<

Richter said the same thing - almost verbatim.

>>the best accountants in the world, and lawyers in all 50 states <<

Let's see. Ms. Kitts has been practicing for only five years and is a product of Seattle University (not exactly Harvard Law). MS's attorney, David Bateman, is a graduate of both Yale (summa cum laude/Phi Beta Kappa) and Yale Law. He has been practicing for twenty one years. It looks to me like you are seriously out-gunned.

>>The Microsoft lawsuit was the most enjoyable lawsuit I have been in, in a long time. I met up with all of them and had fun through the entire process :)<<

Uh huh. So much for credibility.

>> It doesn't matter if they receive a judgement for $8 million or $8 billion, Microsoft won't see a single dime, (or penny) as all my assets are protected under the Washington State Asset Protection Act.<<

RCW 6.15.010 suggests otherwise.

>> I'm a Non-US citizen and will not be filing for bankruptcy, nor will my company, nor have I ever in the past, nor have I ever had any debt to the IRS with the taxes I gladly pay to them every year... EVER. Feel free to quote me on that one. Quit acting like you have a clue, because you don't.<<
