While this is intuitive it is limited by screen real estate. In order to display much more information two methods are used.

3.1 Detailed information in a child pop-up window

In the particular context of displaying the preview of a data source local a child window is displayed. This window is fairly rich and displays a whole slew of records together. Figure 3. shows the child window mechanism.

Please make sure that pop-up blockers are turned OFF to experience full functionality.

3.2 Detailed information in an expanded view

In the particular context of displaying the details of a data-source local a toggle button (⚙️) is provided. That toggle button when clicked on the detailed view collapses the list panel and provides the detailed view with a much bigger real estate. This opens up an expanded view of the detailed display of a data-source local.
